A note on hardcopy owner's manuals (OMs): While it is helpful to have online access to owner's manuals, it is best to have a hardcopy to keep in the vehicle. Unfortunately, it is not usually cost effective to reprint the online document at home. Most local dealerships can sell you a replacement manual through the parts department, and some offer online ordering. A cost-saving option is to check online for hardcopy availability from the general public (i.e.: Ebay, Craigslist) or third-party vendors (like Helm, Inc. at www.helminc.com) that specialize in fulfillment and distribution. However, always check with the vehicle manufacturer to make sure you are using the most up-to-date version of the owner's manual, as updates are sometimes made after going to press.
